Overview

This diff represents a folder comparison between two trees on disk, with NovaDiff-main as the baseline (left) and NovaDiff as the target (right). The file being compared is package.json. The change kind is modified, indicating that both sides exist but differ.

Key changes

The following changes were detected in the package.json file:

- Added dependencies: "lucide-react": "^0.511.0", "marked": "^15.0.7", "mermaid": "^11.15.0"
- Removed dependency: "remark-gfm": "^4.0.1"
- Changed dependency versions: "react": "^19.1.0", "react-dom": "^19.1.0", "react-markdown": "^10.1.0", "react-window": "^1.8.11", "rehype-sanitize": "^6.0.0", "three": "^0.184.0"

These changes are significant because they introduce new dependencies and modify existing ones, which may impact the overall behavior of the application.

Impact

The impact of these changes is not immediately apparent, but it's essential to verify that the new dependencies do not introduce any compatibility issues or performance regressions. Additionally, the removal of "remark-gfm" may require additional testing to ensure that the application continues to function correctly.

Risks & follow-ups

Based on the evidence provided, there is a risk of regression due to the change in dependency versions. To mitigate this risk, we should run the primary build/test pipeline to ensure that the new dependencies do not cause any issues. Additionally, we should verify that the removed dependency does not affect the application's functionality. Finally, we should consider updating the documentation to reflect the changes made to the package.json file.
